2019 Was an incredible year...

We dared to believe that we could impact the globe with hope! Our organization operates on three principles, we identify as pillars: Service, Outreach, and Empowerment.

In an attempt to encapsulate the task and events that have been executed and accomplished, it is most challenging to place words onto the page. We have witnessed numbers into the thousands being impacted beyond our imagination.

By active empowerment. We have extended our reach so that service could be duplicated. An example of At-risk community populations served are transient, mentally ill, juvenile, human traffic victims, cancer patients, and people that identify with drug addiction.

We average serving as an organization twice per month. And, we serve in larger groups 3-4 times per year, not to mention our rise during critical tragedy and the need for emergency response.

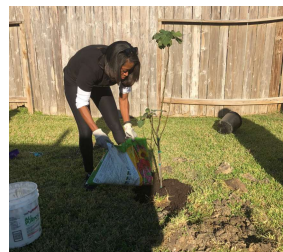

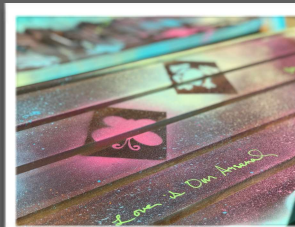

In addition to service, we have surpassed our own expectation in the dynamic of outreach. We began building our digital network, HOH Network to comprise digital radio, and visual media to continue to reach those around the world. We are pleased to note that our neighboring continent, South America (Brazil) is 2nd in our analytics as they are watching the movement of Hope Over Hurt consistently!

Empowerment leads to transformative habit. We have hosted to major empowerment events this year that included reflective models, art therapy, song, dance, and sound research-based teaching that initiated several of our national service partners (individuals new to serving) to fly into town just to be part of our empowering events this past year.

We traveled to other cities in outreach mode, financially supported the mission of other change agents, rose to the call of need during Hurricane Dorian by donating hard items and currency, while developing Emergency Kits for children that were dispersed to children at various schools. Yet, this is only a portion of our impactful drive of HOH.

While there is much gratitude in this reflection, the work continues. As we set our vision for broader and deeper impact, we hold fast to the declaration, "We believe. Love is our arsenal."

STORIES OF HOPE

Our mission and vision for Hope Over Hurt has followed the mantra that 'Love Is Our Arsenal.' Since our humble beginnings in 2017, we have maintained the momentum of love being the vital catalyst that allows us to Serve, Outreach and Empower.

When we assemble and share the daily dose of AMAZING that we are so fortunate to experience by living out HOH, we are in awe of how much gets accomplished with such a small (yet mighty) team! Furthermore, it is as equally miraculous how we are able to serve with very meager resources.

As you read the brief stories of Hope, we wish for you to relate to the fundamental need that each creation desires; to be loved, understood, cared for and protected. While there are so many more that could be shared, we hope that you appreciate the glimpse into our world where life meets love.

Keshea Hammond

Fall 2019 Graduate

When Keshea joined HOH, life was different. She was a young lady with few words, yet her heart was open and she was eager to embark upon a completely different journey.

As time progressed, Keshea began to blossom and her independence was a symptom of such growth. She opened a business, began working on her financial knowledge and then...decided to complete her college degree! The day that she walked across the stage, the entire family of HOH cheered for Keshea- for this quiet young lady became one of the leaders in the organization. Keshea presented Hope Over Hurt with a framed acknowledgment and said to us that, "her life changed" as she crossed the line to completion.

"If it was not for the love and support of HOH, I would have not completed my college education. I never had people who genuinely believed in me and pushed me to live at my highest level of potential. This was the victory of a battle that lasted over 15 years."

Love Is Our Arsenal

Nzinga Rideaux

In the summer of 2018, Nzinga Rideaux received a call that Hope Over Hurt will never forget. After being diagnosed with breast cancer, Nzinga exemplified marked courage and faith through rounds of chemotherapy, radiation and surgery. A key leader in the Hope Over Hurt organization, Nzinga continued to serve in a variety of ways with love and a heart full of promise. When the doctor gave her a good stamp of health (cancer malignant pathology), we knew that our hope was with promise. HOH has the honor of witnessing the power of God's promise and love heal our sister from breast cancer. Nzinga says that, "the love, support, and genuine prayers are what brought her through."

We got to walk with her in 2019 for the Susan G. Komen's Breast Cancer Fundraiser. She led us then. She leads us now.

Love is Our Arsenal

The Hope Bench- Kameron Foster Edition

I recall her frustration. Erika Chambers, a single mother of two sons, was striving to balance her career, living transitions, and conflicts with her youngest son's school. From meetings, phone calls, letters home, to a child with a deflated self-concept; Erika knew one thing...change was necessary. She would share that Kameron (11 years of age) was being bullied by students and the teachers were also combative and debilitating to his education and sense of safety.

Eventually and courageously, Erika removed Kameron from traditional school and began to home school. Now, her entire journey changed to becoming a mom that worked from home and praying that she would be able to keep her job. And...she was able to see the favor of life turn in the balance toward her and the family she had dedicated her very life to protect. In honor of Kameron and millions of other children that are bullied every day, the vision of the Hope Bench emerged. With the artistic perspective of Imi's Art, and the HOH family, we were able to create and sponsor a school with the first of its kind. We hope that every child that should sit on the bench be inspired to share their fears, while having a safe space to pause and collect their thoughts. To every Kameron Foster out there...you are never alone. We love you.
